VOL. XIX.

STANFORD, KY., TUESDAY, AUGUST 18, 1891.

NO. 48

CRAB ORCHARD.

—J. Ollenhauer brought this week of W. P. Tatum a good buggy horse for $125.

—Some people here go to the post-office regularly every day who were never known to get as much mail as a postal card.

—Look out for the fly and the black-haired pate of Jordan Peter Chandler in the Louisville Times this week. Gaze upon them and consider if he be worthy to sit like Mordecai, at the door of legislation.

—Will the College building be used for school purposes this year, now that it belongs to a private individual. The town itself should have purchased it and dedicated it to this community as a perpetual educational institution, for which, and for nothing else, it was originally intended.

—At a meeting of the trustees of the Crab Orchard public school Friday day, Miss Sallie Green was preferred over Miss Leah Steger to assist Prof. Smith for the fall term, which began yesterday. Mrs. L. T. Cole will have charge of the Adams district, and Miss Mollie Warren will conduct the Wall's Chapel school instead of Miss Jennie Reynolds as reported last week.

—There about 350 guests at Crab Orchard Springs and the number is being daily augmented. Beauty, gallantry and intellect were never better represented; and the remaining two weeks of August promises to be one continued succession of intoxicating gayeties. Indeed when Crab Orchard Springs, graced by the urbanity of Dave Edmister and embellished by the magic pencil of Willis, fails to have a crowd, other resorts may as well have their "ads" taken out and dumped into it.

—Mr. Dan McClure, who has been visiting relatives in this section for the past month, returned Saturday to his home at Rockdale, Ind., accompanied by his pretty nieces, Misses Lila McClure and Maggie Cochran. Mr. and Mrs. John Magee and children are down from Pineville, the guests of Mr. Magee's mother on Elm Street. W. F. Abraham is buying wheat here for the Knoxville market. He is paying 80 cents per bushel. Misses Lizzy Duhon, Annie Higgins and Mary Prather, a trio of Perryville beauties, are spending the week with Miss Mary Robinson. Misses Maggie Hardesty and Nancy Harris, of Lancaster, are visiting Mrs. J. H. Stephens.

—"What has become of your versatile Crab Orchard scribe?" "We miss his excellent lucubrations."—Hintonville Cor.

He still lives, dear Ike; but since the day of July, when the lambent glow of a pair of bright eyes made his brain reel and his heart grow volcanic, he has almost lost sight of earth and earthly things, (including news items,) and learned to fix his enraptured gaze on those angelic regions, where loveliness fades not away. He will, however, now that the "spell" is temporarily broken, continue to write; and, if from his perch amid the blue hills of Lynnwood, he can get but a glimpse of events passing in Crab Orchard, his knotty little pencil will record them for you and his other friends. Aha Tonyson, the crescent promise of his reportorial spirit hath not set, at least not yet!

—Mrs. Tolbert Martin, of Maywood, and her two children, are visiting at Mrs. Sue Holmes'. Miss Nannie Stephenson, a stylish blonde of Richmond, is here mingling with relatives. Mrs. J. H. Hatching has returned from a week's stay in Danville. Miss Jennie Piergo is the guest of her friend, Miss Grace Tabor. Mr. McGill and her captivating daughter, Miss Lillie, have returned to Louisville after a two weeks' pleasant visit at W. P. Tatum's. Mrs. Annie Gover, of the West End, is at her mother's, Mrs. Martha Singleton's. By the way her baby, which is the very image of its handsome mother, is one of the prettiest cherubs that we have ever seen, and would we were certain take the chromo at any baby fair in the land. Mr. and Mrs. Jno Bingham have gone to house-keeping at Mr. Bingham's ancestral home on the banks of Cedar Creek.

Mr. Jim Miller is in town. Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Cotterell, of Knoxville, Tenn., are the guests of Misses Mary and Kate Curtis. The doctor is a prominent dentist in the East Tennessee metropolis. Mrs. T. Currey, Miss Mamie Curvey and the Misses Martin, of Lancaster, were the guests of Mrs. W. A. Carson several days this week. Dr. Jim Black, of Madison county, joined his wife here Saturday, who is spending the summer with her mother, Mrs. J. S. Fish. Mrs. Mollie Scott and her ingenious little son, Johnnie, the inventor of the "White House Game," came over from Lexington Friday and are the guests of Mrs. Judge W. O. Hansford. Mrs. Will Severance, who has for some time been afflicted with cancer of the heart, is lying dangerously ill at her home on the Stanford pike.

—Miss Clyde England, daughter of a wealthy Warren county farmer, was thrown from her horse and her foot catching in the stirrup she was dragged to death.

This, though it was the last day of the Institute, was not suffered to drag its slow length wearily along and flit out ingloriously, like all last days usually do, but by a. a. n. every teacher was in place, and, after music and divine invocation, the subject of "Theory and Practice" was announced. It was introduced by Mr. L. T. Cole, who took a leading part in the discussion of reading, writing and grammar the first and second days, but whose name was unintentionally omitted from Friday's report. He made a strong practical and impressive talk of 15 minutes duration, in the course of which he said that the teacher needed will-power; that he should be able to organize and conduct his school according to system; and that he should endeavor to develop the high and noble instinct of the soul, and not the animal and material propensities. Mrs. J. F. Gover, Mr. Brongh, Prof. Pulliam, Prof. Niles, W. E. Cress, Mrs. Alice Phillips and others followed Mr. Cole, each suggesting something new for the betterment of the internal workings of the school system. Among these suggestions were attendance the first day, prayer and Bible exercises, plenty of time to arrange classes properly, acquaintance with pupils' disposition and cooperation of parents.

Prof. Pulliam's talk on literature, which all had been anxiously awaiting for two days, followed and was replete with excellent ideas eloquently and forcibly expressed. He said we must establish libraries in our schools, encourage readings, lectures on the classics, and, by hints and examples, encourage in the pupil a taste for good literature. Messrs. Davis and Smith likewise talked on this theme, the former making a 19 minutes' address in behalf of the modern family newspaper, not forgetting his literary gadabout, the LEXINGTON JOURNAL.

Prof. McClary and Cole finished the programme with a sensible talk, each on the duties of trustees, which ought to have been transcribed into the ears of every gentleman in this county calling himself such. After which a few minutes were devoted to miscellaneous business.

Mr. John A. Chappell, president of the Teachers' Association, here arose and insisted on every teacher becoming a member of the organization. Prof. Smith seconded his remarks, and dilated on the advantages to be derived from such membership, after which the majority of the teachers had their names enrolled. The president then appointed Mr. B. Lee Davis, Prof. W. F. McClary and Misses Cattie Thurmond and Alice Stuart as a committee to designate a time and place for the Association to hold its first monthly meeting and to arrange a programme therefor.

The committee on resolutions, composed of Mr. W. E. Cress, Miss Kate Bogle and Miss Helen Thurmond, appeared and reported the following:

Resolved, 1st. That we commend the ability, learning and admirable management displayed by Prof. S. J. Pulliam in conducting the Institute, which has been one of the most successful in the educational history of the county.

2. That we feelingly appreciate the able, competent and impartial course pursued by Prof. W. F. McClary in the discharge of his official duties in connection with the Institute; and that we are grateful for his cordiality and kindness shown to me and all.

3. That the special thanks of the Institute be tendered Prof. and Mrs. Hubbard for the use of the College chapel, and for the courtesies and conveniences shown the teachers while in session there.

4. That Prof. W. F. Niles, Mrs. Allen, Prof. Goodnight, Hon. F. F. Bobbitt, Rev. Ben Helm and Messrs. Eubanks and Phillips, who furnished delightful music, be voted the thanks of the Institute for contributing to the interest and gusto of the exercises.

5. That the Institute acknowledge its appreciation of the valuable services rendered by our efficient secretary, Mr. R. Lee Davis.

6. That the thanks of the Institute, individually and collectively be tendered Editor W. F. Walton, of the LEXINGTON JOURNAL, for the interest manifested in the teachers and their work, and for his kindness in printing full reports of the meeting.

7. That these resolutions be made a part of the printed minutes, and be published in the columns of the LEXINGTON JOURNAL.

After the reading and adoption of these resolutions, and a few words of grateful acknowledgement from Prof. McClary and Pulliam by way of parting, the Institute, at 11:30 A. M., adjourned sine die.

Caller—Your train ran into my wagon at the crossing, killed my two horses, smashed the wagon, killed my wife and used me up in this manner. Now I want damages.

Urbane Official—Want damages? Why, man alive, I should think you had enough damages to last you a lifetime!

BARBOURVILLE, KNOX COUNTY.

—The Knox County Fair Association about have the grounds completed for their first exhibition. This fair has certainly been well advertised and large crowds are expected here each day.

—Mrs. Chas. H. Baker, of Louisville, is visiting at her father's, Capt. Wm. McDonald, of this place. Judge Tinsley left for Harlan Sunday, where common pleas court opened Monday. Mrs. T. J. Killens and daughter, Miss Etta, of Roost, were visiting friends here Thursday and Friday of last week. W. F. Costello, of this place, has gone South for a business trip of some weeks.

—Mrs. E. Boyd Tuggle, the pleasant and estimable old lady who has been making her home with the family of Col. John Dishman, of this city, for several years past, left last Thursday night for Kansas, where she will reside in the future with her daughter. Mrs. Tuggle and her sister, Mrs. Col. John Dishman, are cousins of the late Gen. David R. Atchison, of Missouri, who bore the singular distinction of having been president of the United States for one day.

—Barbourville will have more students away from home at school next year than any other town in Eastern Kentucky. Robert K. Burnside, James Steele and George Herndon are going to attend a medical college, probably at St. Louis, Mo., while Ed. Hudson and Frank Walton will return to Centre College, Danville. James M. Hays will go back to the State College at Lexington, where he finishes this next year. Flein D. Sampson will enter the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., in September. Judge T. J. Wyant and Will Sawyer are thinking of entering the University of Virginia for a law course, while Chas. A. Tinsley, Jesse W. Tuggle and Lewis D. Sampson will enter the law department of the Northern Indiana Normal College, of Valparaiso, Ind., for a full course.

Dr. G. H. Allright goes back to the University of Louisville, Medical Department. Of the girls there is Miss Ella Tinsley, who will return to the Conservatory of Music, Cincinnati. Miss Annie Dishman goes back to the College at Stanford, where she finishes this year. Miss May Costenow will enter Danville College, Harrodsburg, Lillie Clarke will return to Loretta, and Mabel Burnside will probably go to Lancaster. Thus if the mountains do now bear the name of being unmediated they are stepping in the right direction to come out of it soon.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas in the providence of God Rev. Wilson S. Gosh, a member of Hustonville Lodge, No. 184, F. & A. M., has been removed from this life to the life beyond the grave, from his family, his friends and his church; therefore, resolved,

1st. That in the life of our deceased brother we recognize a character richly adorned by many virtues and every Christian grace, a character beyond the reach of reproach and untarnished by any suspicion of evil.

2nd. As Nations it is with unfeigned pleasure we bestow upon his memory the affection of fraternal hearts, and in sorrow for so great a loss, unite in bestowing upon his memory our last tribute of fraternal regard.

3rd. In remembrance of the pure life of the deceased the members of this lodge will wear the usual badge of mourning for 30 days.

4th. That a copy of these resolutions shall be spread on the minutes, a copy sent to the family of our deceased brother and a copy furnished the INTERIOR JOURNAL for publication.

There is allowed for incidental expenses $8,000. For repairs on the White House and refurnishing same, and for fuel, gas, green-houses, stables, etc., $10,000.

The mearest man on record lives in Union county. He sold his son one-half of a cow and then refused to divide the milk, maintaining that he sold only the front half. The son-in-law was also required to provide the feed the cow consumed, and compelled to carry water to her three times a day. Recently the cow hooked the old man and now he is suing his son-in-law for damages.

Jack (strolling home from the evening services)—There used to be a law in New England prohibiting kissing on Sunday.

Mande (coolly)—Well, it isn't in force now, is it?
(And the moon went behind a cloud to laugh.)

—The Louisvillians are wroth with the park commissioners for naming their parks, Cherokee, Iroquois and Shawnee.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—Mr. Thomas M. Hopper, who came here recently for the purpose of putting up a saddle and harness shop, and brought along his aunt and cousin, Miss Emma L. Barnett, was married to his cousin last Sunday.

—The teachers institute commenced here yesterday (Monday) and our streets will be filled with the lovely young school-ma'ams and egotistical school-mistresses. The teachers institute here is usually as much of a pleasure in many ways as it is instructive in others. Senator Pateman will conduct it.

—A "tacky" party was given to the young folks Saturday night by Mr. and Mrs. James D. Smith at their handsome residence on the hill, and is said by the young ones who were present to have been the most enjoyable social they had attended for a long time. A prize each was presented the "tackiest" young lady and gentleman present, and which were received by Mr. John Moran and Miss Kittie Jackson.

—Mr. Charley Faris has just returned from the West. Mr. C. W. Jones is in from a trip to Mississippi. Miss Lucy Jones is at home from an extended trip to Richmond. Master Walker Province is convalescing. Mr. R. C. Ford has recovered sufficient to be allowed to eat a little, but not near as much as he wants. Walker Brown is another one of those afflicted with typhoid fever on the road to recovery. Mr. E. K. Wilson is spending a few days at Crab Orchard Springs with his sisters. Editor A. R. Dyche is getting along well under the circumstances.

—The case of Andy Edwards against the school trustees in his district (over which the recent shooting scrape occurred between him and Donlity) came off Sunday before Supt. Weaver, and it was decided by him that the trustees had no right to exclude Edwards' children without first laying the case before the county school superintendent. Mr. Edwards has been chairman of his school district, paid more taxes to build the school-house than any other man in it, his daughter has taught in the white schools in the county, his wife is a white woman and he has always passed for a white man. The colored blood that flows through his veins is very far removed, but that some of his ancestors were such is undoubtedly true. He has always been a quiet, prosperous and inoffensive citizen.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Prof. F. L. Bristow, the musician, has bought the High Bridge Camp Grounds of 10 acres for $1,500.

—Rev. C. A. Kause, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Princeton, died of typhoid fever Sunday.

—Elder W. L. Williams is holding a meeting at Goshen this week with services at 10:30 A. M. and 7:30 P. M.

—Rev. H. T. Daniel has resigned the pastoral charge of the Baptist church, on account of ill health, and will accept a position as financial secretary of Williamsburg Institute.—Paris News.

—The meeting which has been in progress at the Christian church for two weeks, was to have closed last night. The visible results are 12 additions to the church and an increased devotion among the membership. (Rev. Mark Collis has labored earnestly and successfully and he returns to his home with the plaudits from God and man, "Well done thou good and faithful servant.")

THE IMPORTANCE OF SLEEP.—The English Lancel has again been laying great stress on the importance of sleep to those who would live a long and useful life.

Seven to nine hours, according to temperament and constitution is the modicum that ought to be taken, and the greater the regularity of the hours of slumber, the better its effects are. The public is urged not to unduly prolong the day, for man, in common with most of the animal creation, has accepted the plain suggestion of nature that the approach of night should imply a cessation of effort. If he ignores this principle his work is done against inherited habit, and, so far, with additional fatigue. The practice of workingly artificial light is strongly deprecated, and the Lancel shows that the old custom of early waking is certain to prove in future, as returns of longevity and common experience have shown that it has proved in the past, most conducive to healthy and active life.

STANFORD, KY., - AUGUST 18, 1891

With a puerility unworthy of a paper usually conducted on so high a plane, the Richmond Register seems to regard as impertinence the suggestion made by INTERIOR JOURNAL, which opposed the constitution, that Col. Welch, who also opposed it, would make a capital member of the commission to conform the statutes to the new order of things. "Gov. Brown," it says, "should not listen to the suggestion. Col. Welch is a nice man, but when it comes to preparing amendments to the new constitution, he should be relegated to the extreme rear." This is further exhibition of the silly intolerance that characterized the pro-constitution sheets during the campaign. No man, according to them, was honest who opposed what he regarded a conglomeration of experiments and inconsistencies, and now no man according to the Register, who did so, should have part or lot in anything pertaining to it. Col. Welch like all other true men accepts without murmur the will of the majority and is ready to aid to the extent of his ability in bringing about a peaceful and proper conformation of the law to the changes embodied in the new constitution. That he is fully capable as a lawyer and as a writer of putting the statutes in such language as will render them forceful in expression and clear in meaning, no one who knows him doubts, and the Register in its efforts to proscribify everybody who doesn't think like it does, shows a narrowness of nature that we had thought it incapable of. Furthermore the fact that the INTERIOR JOURNAL was on what proved to be the unpopular side in the recent discussion, does not, in the opinion of quite as astute gentlemen as some we could name, entirely put it outside the pale of interest in State affairs, and it will continue at the same old stand to give expression to whatever it thinks would conduce to the public good, even if its critic does refer sneeringly to its suggestions as "kindly and considerate." Besides things have indeed come to a — of a pass when a man's democracy is gauged by his vote on a constitution that was made part of the republican platform.

Come off Bro. Green, and do not let a little victory run clean away with your good sense.

The Pineville Messenger says that Judge M. C. Sanley is seriously considering the question of locating at that place. The judge said all along that if the new constitution was adopted he would not go back to Knoxville as that instrument would create sufficient litigation to make it profitable for every lawyer to remain in Kentucky. The friends of Judge Sanley who like him opposed the constitution, extract the comfort a least from the situat on that its adoption keeps in the State one of the brightest and best of lawyers, and a gentleman of recognized ability as a writer, advocate or political speaker.

The widow of President James K. Polk died in Nashville Friday at the ripe old age of 88. At the time of her marriage her husband was a member of the Tennessee legislature. Shortly after he was elected to Congress, in which he served seven terms, four as speaker. While mistress of the White House she was very popular, although she abolished dancing and the custom of giving refreshments to the guests. In her youth she is said to have been an exceedingly handsome woman, as she was always attractive and a fine conversationalist.

SECRETARY FOSTER'S refunding scheme does not seem to be panning out very satisfactorily. The banks very willingly came to his assistance and accepted a continuance of their 4 1/2 bonds at 2 per cent., but the $25,000,000 held by individuals is still out and this is what is causing the empty treasury trouble. As they fall due September 1, they must be paid or continued at the same rate of interest, a beautiful state of affairs in these piping times of peace. Turn the rascals out should be the renewed war-cry till the last son-of-a-gun walks the plank.

You can't always sometimes tell even if you do think you know a writer's style. This paper and several others have been crediting numerous and sundry good things in the Louisville Times to Bro. Logan, while as a matter of fact the ex-farmer longing for the fields of wavy grain again had hid himself to his Warren county farm to commune with nature and perhaps look from nature up to nature's God. In his absence Col. W. M. Hull has been holding down his end of the log and doing it so naturally as to fool the very elect.

A TRIBUTE to his dead sister, Mrs. Mary E. Newell, from the pen of Col. W. O. Bradley, appears in the Somerset Reporter. It is beautiful in thought and touching in expression, and gives further evidence that the writer's heart is as tender as he is manly and courageous by nature.

EDITOR PECK, of the Falmouth Democrat, is kind enough to say: The INTERIOR JOURNAL, of Stanford, is one of the very ablest edited papers in the State.

A SENSATIONAL murder trial, which excited that whole section of the state at Abingdon. Dr. Baker, a physician of high standing, was convicted of poisoning his wife and sentenced to die on the gallows. An unholy passion for Mrs. Gilmer, the fascinating wife of a wealthy neighbor, is what has brought the doctor to disgrace and perhaps an ignominious death. The two loved not wisely but too well and for years enjoyed what of pleasure illicit love can bring. His wife and her husband were in the way of their complete happiness and they decided to put them out of the way. The doctor prepared the drug for both and administered one to his wife, the other he gave to the woman for her husband. The wife died, but Mrs. Gilmer, while very bad, was not mean enough to commit murder and weakened when the time came to dose her old man. The sudden death of Mrs. Baker and the hurry of the doctor to put her body underground created suspicion and a good deal of gossip, which increased till the body was ordered to be exhumed. Then the tell tale arsenic was found in large quantities in her stomach. Even with this proof however, it would have been impossible to have convicted the doctor, but on the trial Mrs. Gilmer gave the conspiracy away and the doctor's life as well. It may be another case of Eve tempting Adam, but if her story is true, the doctor's miserable neck will but partly atone for his cowardly sin. A great effort will be made to save his life by appeals and other devices of the law, but the public will breathe easier when the doctor joins that other woman murderer, Thomas J. Chiverins, who took the life of Fannie Lillian Madison.

The Maryland farmers' alliance is composed of sensible men. It endorsed the democratic nominee for governor and declared that the alliance is not and cannot become a political party. If there were more men of brains and fewer renegades from other parties at the head of the farmers' movement they might be able to accomplish more. As it is they are being used by designing rascals to further their own political ends. Farmers, stick to the old democratic ship.

The Louisville Times is authority for the statement that Public Printer and Binder, E. Polk Johnson, has bought a drug store in Frankfort. Now if the colonel will devote the columns of his paper and his own personal persuasive powers to procuring a prohibition law for the capital city, he can soon be so rich that he needn't notice an ordinary newspaper man unless he wants to.

BERRY HOWARD, the democrat who was elected to the legislature by 59 majority in the former republican stronghold of Harlan, Bell, Perry and Leslie, is not to enjoy his hard-earned victory without a further struggle. A notice of contest has been served on him and another battle will be fought in the legislature.

The Somerset Reporter says the friends of Hon. O. H. Waddle are pressing him for one of the commissioners to revise the statutes to conform with the new constitution. Mr. Waddle is a most capable and excellent lawyer and next to our entry, Col. Welch, we would like to see him appointed to the position.

The absence of the "In and About Kentucky" column of the Courier-Journal this week is due to the fact that its excellent engineer, Mr. A. Y. Ford, is taking a week off and with this wife is enjoying the watermelons and other delights of his old Davies county home.

—Your correspondent sends kindly greetings to the INTERIOR and its thousands of readers, and returns his thanks to his numerous friends for sympathies and favors received during his recent illness. —The Louisville Times of the 14th, contains the information that would be cheerful if true, that "nearly every man is the proud possessor of a 'pocket piece' of greater or less value," and gives some interesting specimens of old coins that are in possession of some of its acquaintances. The investigation of the Times in this important matter must have been very superficial, or money must be plenty in the Bear-grass region. Around this way, a man with a nickel in his pocket is an object of envy, and the possessor thereof is as proud of his treasure as a king is of one chicken.

—Lancaster Lodge, A. Y. M., was re-organized on Saturday evening, August 15th, by the installation of the following officers: W. J. Landrum, W. M.; W. H. Wheritt, S. W.; W. Herndon, J. W.; W. B. Mason, Sec.; Sherman Huelbold, Treas.; J. W. Miller, S. D.; R. A. Burns, J. D. The stated meetings were fixed on the 2nd and 4th Monday nights in each month. The installation ceremonies were conducted by Grand Master J. Speed Smith, Deputy Grand Master R. C. H. Covington, and Grand Marshal W. F. Francis, all of Richmond. The lodge after a long call from labor to refreshment is again in working order, and as the officers are old and experienced Masons, there is no doubt as to its success.

—One would have supposed that after all the fuss over the new constitution, and the smoke of the battle had cleared away, peace would have reigned within our borders and the people have been permitted to think and talk about something else without being disturbed about the adoption of something thousands voted for without having read or seen. Not so, however, as appears from the record of events in the goodly city of Covington, where Hon. Oliver W. Root, a gentleman and a scholar, a fine lawyer and a brilliant orator, proceeded a few days since to administer a knock down argument in favor of the new constitution, and in turn to receive a sprawling argument from his worthy competitor in opposition to that instrument of sufficient power to lay him for some time flat on his back on the hard pavement. Out of this flurry may come the decision of a police court upon the merits of the new constitution, and while it will be powerless to thwart the will of the people, it may nevertheless set some of those who voted for it without knowing or caring what was, in it to thinking whether it is not best to "look before you leap," or to think before you act.

POOR ANDY YATES was found dead in bed yesterday. He had the consumption and had been going rapidly down for some time. His last visit up town was to vote the democratic ticket, to which party he was always attached. He was an unusually smart negro, but an insatiable love for liquor kept him most of the time in trouble. But it is all over. Let him rest in peace.

A WEEK OR TWO ago a man who claimed to be agent for the "original Blind Tom" contracted to give a performance here about the 20th, but as the exact date has not been fixed as he promised it should, we suppose the engagement is off. By the way, can anybody tell us whether Blind Tom is really alive or was he drowned at Johnston, died a natural death or put in the poor-house? Each of these statements has its believers, and we would like to know, you know.

Capt. V. M. Hill was acquitted of the charge of obtaining money from the Italians on false pretense, the court at Cincinnati, where the arrest was made, deciding that a promise to obtain work in the future could not be interpreted as a false pretense, the terms of the condition not having been broken, no special time or limit having been set. The captain claims that the whole thing grew out of revenge. He knocked one of the Dagos down for insulting him and that made the whole kit and caboodle.

ANOTHER large crowd of young people gathered at Crab Orchard Springs Friday night and enjoyed to the fullest extent the many pleasures afforded by that delightful summer resort. The regular Friday night hops have always been a source of pleasure to the society people of this section, but during the present season they are proving even more enjoyable and popular than ever. There are over 500 guests at the Springs now and a gayer place could hardly be found. Crab Orchard Springs has always been an Eden of delight to the pleasure seeker and the beaux and belles of this and other States find no more pleasant place to while away the summer hours than there. Courtship, which is always indulged in at summer resorts, is not forgotten there either, and in the nooks and corners of the spacious grounds many youths can be seen telling the old, old story to his best girl. Among those who attended the hop from this place on Friday evening were: Miss Annie Alcorn, Ed. Jones; Miss Mary Alcorn, Brown Burkhalter; Miss de Jarrette, W. B. McKinney; Miss Lin Lathrop, Eph Pennington; Miss Helen Sauley, C. O. Carson, and Messrs. Wearen, Ront, Webb, Keller, Walton, Nunnally, Lacey, Reid, G. T. and W. G. Lackey.

OF VITAL INTEREST to the Community. OFFICE OF MASTER OF TRAINS, 1 Rowland, Ky., August 15th.

Messrs. Walton, Welch, Vandever, Menefee, Hill, and other citizens of Stanford:

GENTLEMEN:—The question is now up in reference to continuing the present railroad headquarters at Rowland and the matter, so far as the company is concerned, hinges on their being able to get a sufficient water supply. The general manager authorizes me to say that Mr. Bettison, civil engineer for this division, together with Mr. Ansley, roadmaster, and myself will be glad to meet a committee of your citizens for the purpose of seeing what can be done in the direction of a better water supply. The present supply is only sufficient to furnish our engines while running on the road, and we are compelled to send all our engines to Louisville to have them washed out. You can understand how inconvenient this is, to say nothing of the loss that the company sustains in not moving their freight promptly, when I tell you that it has been necessary twice during the past week to send three or four engines light, to Louisville to have them washed out, with four or five trains of south-bound freight standing in Rowland yard waiting for engines to move them. If the citizens of Stanford can bring pressure to bear that will enable the company to locate the reservoir either north of Stanford, at what is known as Buffalo Springs, or in the vicinity of the toll-gate near Rowland, where water can be obtained for all our uses, there will no longer be any question about keeping the present railroad population at Rowland.

Our chief-engineer, Mr. Montfort, has expressed himself as being in favor of locating the reservoir near the spring, for the reason that the pressure would then be sufficient at Rowland to meet our wants in washing out our engines. The company does not expect the people of Stanford to pay for these improvements, but will be glad to have them co-operate in furnishing them water at a minimum cost.

The amount of water required for washing out engines is so great that the company can not afford to pay for it at anything like city rates, and desires to obtain it at the mere cost of pumping.

I have stated to the general manager that there is a pronounced sentiment in Stanford to aid the company in every possible way to encourage continuing the present division headquarters at Rowland. Yours, respectfully,

FRANK HARRIS, Master of Trains.

Our citizens will see from the above that now is the time to act. We can not afford to lose the advantages that the shops at Rowland bring us and every citizen with his own interest and the interest of the town at heart will do what is in his power to secure the needed facilities for the company. In order to take steps to that end, Mayor Vandever has called a mass-meeting of the citizens of Stanford and Rowland at the Court-House to-night, Aug. 18, at 7:30 p. m. Let everybody attend.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—It was quite a surprise to the people here when a telegram was received Friday stating that Miss Ella Shanks and Mr. T. A. Rice had married on the evening before. Some ten days ago, Miss Ella, accompanied by her cousin, Miss Annie Shanks, went to French Lick Springs, and those who bade her goodbye did not then think that the next time they gazed on her pretty face she would be joined "till death shall part" with the man of her choice. Yes, Miss Ella went to French Lick and Mr. Rice also went there. Whether it was a coincidence probably the world will never know, but the majority of those who know the contracting parties are no doubt inclined to believe it was a pre-arranged affair. In any event they were married and two hearts are joined together that have loved to these many years. The bride, who is a daughter of Mr. S. H. Shanks, of this place, is a bewitching little brunette, thoroughly accomplished and is as lovely of character as she is beautiful of face. No young lady possesses a more amiable disposition than Miss Ella and her legion of friends will, we know, join the INTERIOR JOURNAL in wishing her the best of all this world affords and a long life of unalloyed happiness, and of the groom, who is a personal friend of the writer, it would be indeed hard to say too much. A gentleman in every way, genial and obliging, business in every turn of nature, Tom Rice is deservedly popular with the young and old, and his host of acquaintances, all of whom are friends in every sense of the word are rejoiced at his good fortune in securing such a jewel for a help-mate as Miss Ella Shanks will prove. After a short stay at French Lick, and probably a visit to Stanford Mr. and Mrs. Rice will go to Montgomery, Ala., where Mr. R. has a lucrative position, and there reside. We know of no couple that has started on the voyage of life under more auspicious circumstances than the above and if the good wishes of an entire community go toward making the sail over life's fitful sea a smooth and delightful one, there will be not even a wave of disappointment nor a ripple of trouble.

Immediately on receipt of the news, Mr. Shanks, like the sensible man that he is, telegraphed Mr. and Mrs. Rice to come to Stanford and all would be for-

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

OF STANFORD, KY.

Capital Stock.....$200,000

Surplus.....16,500

Attention of the public is invited to the fact that this is the only National Bank in Stanford. Under the provisions of the National Bank Act, depositors are secured not only by the capital stock, but by the stockholders' liability for an amount equal to the stock, so that depositors of this institution are secured by a fund of $200,000. Five sworn statements of the condition of the bank are made each year to the United States government and its assets are examined at stated times by government agents, thus securing additional and perfect safety to depositors.

This institution, originally established as the Deposit Bank of Stanford in 1851, then re-organized as the National Bank of Stanford in 1863 and again re-organized as the First National Bank of Stanford in 1894, has had practically an unintermitted existence of 54 years. It is better supplied now with facilities for transacting business than ever before in its long and honorable career. Accounts of corporations, individuals and firms are respectfully solicited.

The Directory of this Bank is composed of

The Tonic Sol-Fa System.

The present year will witness the fiftieth anniversary of the tonic sol-fa system, which has done so much, and, we may safely say, will do so much more, in the future, to spread the knowledge and the love of music among the people. Mr. Spencer Curwen, son of the inventor and most energetic propagator of the system, seizes the opportunity for a very interesting review of its history and characteristics in Good Words. Collyer received, disparaged and even derided in many influential quarters. It is now able to confound its opponents by the incontestable evidence of its fruits.

As Mr. Curwen observes, in this jubilee year there are hundreds of musicians who have successfully climbed the ladder his father placed for them—bachelors and doctors of music, fellows of the College of Organists, associates of the Royal Academy of Music, vocalists and performers of repute. Mr. Ben Davis, not many years ago, was singing in tonic sol-fa choirs, and he constantly advises opera singers who wish to read at sight to learn the system.

A doctor of music who graduated the other day at one of our universities testifies that without the tonic sol-fa system he does not think he could possibly have done the work. Such authorities as Dr. Helmholtz, of Berlin; Sir John Herschell, Mr. Bosanquet, General Thompson, Dr. Bridge, Mr. Henry Leslie, Lord Rayleigh, Mr. A. J. Ellis and many others not less noteworthy have given their sanction to the system.

In a Den of Copperheads.

John Saley, a deaf and dumb boy of Pittsburg, went out with the intention of picking raspberries. He had about filled his pail, when his attention was attracted by an unusual motion in the bushes near him. A moment later a monster copperhead snake appeared from under a bush. Before the lad could move the snake had coiled itself and leaped at him.

The stroke was short, but some of the green poison from its fangs fell on Saley's trousers. The boy became paralyzed with terror. A moment later the reptile had formed its deadly coil again, and once more leaped forward to strike. It measured the distance with fatal accuracy, for the deadly fangs were buried deep into Saley's right leg. The pain aroused the boy from his terror and he jumped back. The snake strove to hold on to the leg. Then the boy fainted from fright.

Neighbors ran to the spot just in time to prevent the copperhead from striking again. One of the men seized a club and with a blow broke the snake's back as it was recoiling. The reptile measured eleven feet. A physician cut out the wound, but the poison had penetrated the boy's system. Investigation showed that young Saley had wandered into a den of copperheads.—Cor. Philadelphia Press.

Chinese and Their Burials.

The Chinese of this city and New York, it is said, will hereafter bury their dead in Cypress Hills cemetery instead of in the cemetery of the Evergreens, as has been their custom. This action is said to be taken because the Evergreens cemetery officials have increased the price of graves from ten to twenty dollars each. They have purchased an acre of ground in Cypress Hills cemetery for $1,000 and will have cheaper rates in the future. The Chinese allege that twenty dollars is too much to pay for a grave which is tenanted for only five or six years, as every Chinaman makes a contract with the company that employs him under which the company agrees to send his body back to China. This transmigration of bodies takes place once every five years, the skeletons being packed in tin cases when the proper time comes. The last shipment was made only a short time ago. The skeletons then came from some of the old graves in the cemetery of the Evergreens.—Brooklyn Eagle.

The Graduates Didn't Understand.

There are many persons who think it about time to conduct the commencement exercises of Harvard university in English instead of in Latin. The commencement of the ancient custom caused much amusement for those present, for when President Eliot closed his Latin remarks by inviting the senior class to mount the platform to be presented with their degrees, not a man stirred. When the invitation was repeated, Chief Marshal Chumock started up the platform steps, but a pull from behind, given by a less sanguine classmate, was too much for him, and he turned to go down again. A broad motion of the hand from President Eliot (given in English) finally induced him to continue, and thus the class followed to receive their degrees.—Boston Saturday Gazette.

A Bank Agent's Suit.

Charles W. Dumont, the general agent for the Encyclopedia Britannica, commenced suit against Joseph M. Hawthorne, the West side attorney, to recover $5,000 damages for an alleged illegal restraint of liberty. It seems that Mr. Dumont sold a set of the Encyclopedia to an attorney who has desk room in Mr. Hawthorne's office. The payments not being made Mr. Dumont went after the books, but was informed by Mr. Hawthorne that the attorney owed him, and he intended to keep the books to secure himself. When Mr. Dumont undertook to leave the room the door was locked. Mr. Dumont thereupon fired the books through an open transom and squeezed himself through after them. Hence the suit.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Last year the total receipts of the New York postoffice were $6,380,520.21 and the total expenditures $3,476,358.61, including $1,121,034.29 expended for free delivery service, giving a net revenue of $3,910,161.63, and exhibiting an increase in the total receipts of the office over the previous year of $359,538.13.

A House's Walk on a High Trestle.

A strange scene was witnessed recently on the Northern Pacific trestle at the water works. The trestle is about 600 feet long and 55 feet high. Under it is the Union Pacific roadbed. The ties are about eight inches apart and are evenly distributed the entire distance.

At an early hour the attention of a dozen people was attracted by a large sorrel horse which had walked along the trestle from the south and was mawing at the danger ahead. He was unable to turn around and had fully 500 feet yet to travel. The spectators were struck with awe, expecting every moment to see the animal dashed to atoms by a fall. Now fully mindful of his danger, it was remarkable to note the instinct with which the animal stepped cautiously from one tie to another.

He had just reached that part of the trestle above the Union Pacific roadbed when he became dazed and missed his footing. His hind feet caught in the tie and threw him, so that the rear portion of his body overhung the framework of the immense bridge, while he held himself by his fore feet. The scene was a sickening one, and the spectators looked every moment for the fatal fall. Suddenly, with a powerful lunge, the animal threw his body toward the trestle and managed to regain his feet.

Again he started on his perilous walk, and when within a few feet of the end of the bridge fell again and was caught in much the same manner. Martin Scully started to the assistance of the animal with a rope, but the horse was so close to terra firma that he made an effort to regain his feet and fell to the sloping bank, just a short distance below. He then rolled down the bank for about twenty-five feet. His mouth and hoof were badly bruised in the struggle, but otherwise he was uninjured.—Olympic (Wash.) Tribune.

A Postage Stamp Museum.

At Vienna a postage stamp museum has been opened to the public. The museum will be open to visitors daily and gratuitously. In one room are shown chronologically all stamps of which specimens exist from 1810 to 1891. Among the postal curiosities shown are balloon letters, pigeon post and submarine post letters as they were sent during the siege of Paris in 1870.

A collection of forged stamps is also very interesting to the collector. Among the curious objects shown are letters of the Anthropophagi in the Dutch Indies, pieces of wool covered with hieroglyphics, and postcards which have made the tour of the world. For one of these with a penny stamp, which took 119 days to return to its starting point, an offer of 1,000 florins has been made.

There is also a case with a collection of all the coins struck during the Emperor Francis Joseph's reign. The finest object in the collection is believed to be a Dundee stamp, worth £500, and a Cape of Good Hope stamp valued at £100. The exhibition comprises 3,600,000 stamps and other objects connected with the post.—London Queen.

Wore Female Attire All His Life.

Many examples are known of women dressing as men, but until lately no case has been known of a man going about disguised as a woman. A man named Sigmo, seventy-two years old, employed as a cook, was taken to the hospital of Saint Antoine, Paris, suffering from gastritis. Mistaken, on account of his dress, for a woman, he was taken to the ward reserved for members of the weaker sex. When they found out the mistake he was put into another ward.

The strangest thing about the whole case is that Sigmo said that he never wore male attire excepting on the day he was examined by the conseil de revision in order to determine whether he was fit for military service. When he was seventeen years old he went as a servant girl to a farm in Linsur-Mer. He remained there eleven years. He learned to cook at Caen and went to Paris, where he was employed as cook for forty years either in private families or in boys' schools.—Paris Letter.

Uniforms for Employees.

A Bristol storekeeper donned a white duck coat, and was so pleased with the effect that he ordered all of his employees to wear white duck coats during business hours. Rather than obey the order two of the clerks quit work. Nevertheless, uniforming goes on among store girls, judges, railroad hands, waiters and indeed in almost every occupation where it is desirable that the public should recognize the employees. The mistake of confusing a customer for a clerk has led to rather embarrassing situations in many a store, and clerks who object to being uniformed have the satisfaction of knowing that without their uniforms they cannot be distinguished from their employees.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Real Bullstones.

During the bullstom at Palmyra Friday some children at play on a stoop brushed up a large quantity of the bullstones as they fell and put them on a plate to melt, but instead of melting the stones remained, and upon examination it was found that all of the hail was formed around white stones about the size of pens, and in several there were fine shells. Most of the stones were transparent and of a blue white color. Several parties in various parts of the place report that they also obtained a quantity of these stones and shells, and they are all mystified to know where they came from.—Oswego (N. Y.) Palladium.

Fell in Love at Sixty-one.

A farmer of Wayne, Mich., sixty-one years old, and worth $90,000, lost his wife four years ago. Last spring he saw on the street a pretty brunette twenty-two years old, became enamored, obtained an introduction and proposed. She spurned him, when he offered to make his will in her favor. This failed and he offered to deed her all his property. This also failing he became crazy and tried to hang himself. Then he was sent to an insane asylum. He walks the halls of the asylum moaning for his darling Emma.—Philadelphia Ledger.
